THE GRADUATION CEREMONY

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF TRADITIONAL LAND OWNERS

Deakin University would like to acknowledge the Wathaurong People of the Kulin Nation, the traditional custodians of the land on which this Graduation Ceremony is taking place. We pay our respects for their continued care of the land and further extend that respect to elders past, present and future.

ORDER OF CEREMONY

Processional music heralds the arrival of the Academic Procession for the graduation ceremony.

At the commencement of this music, graduands and guests are asked to stand and remain standing for the National Anthem.

The Master of Ceremonies will open proceedings and the Chancellor will deliver the opening address. The Vice-Chancellor will then introduce the guest speaker who will deliver the occasional address.

The Chancellor will then make a formal declaration conferring the awards of the University on the graduates, both present and in absentia, and he will invite graduates to proceed to the stage according to the order published in the program.

A Faculty Pro Vice-Chancellor will read out the names of graduates being presented to the Chancellor.

At the conclusion of the presentation of the graduates, a representative of the graduating students will deliver a brief response.

The Vice-Chancellor (or representative) will deliver the closing address. Following the closing address, there will be a musical performance.

At the conclusion of the ceremony guests are requested to stand while the stage party and graduates leave the hall.

Refreshments will then be served in the marquee in the John Hay Courtyard.

THE UNIVERSITY MACE

Maces were originally medieval weapons carried by bodyguards to kings and sergeants-at-arms. Much later, the mace became of ceremonial rather than practical significance and organisations such as civic corporations and universities adopted the mace as a symbol of the rule of legal authority.

The University's mace is displayed at meetings of the University Council and on such ceremonial occasions as conferring ceremonies. The bearer of the mace, in academic processions, 'guards' the Chancellor. Deakin's mace was presented to the University by Mr Donald Thomson, Sir Wilfred Brookes and Mr Norman Stephen (Alcoa Australia).

THE ACADEMIC PROCESSION

In academic processions, the order of precedence on entry is from junior to most senior. The Chancellor, therefore, is the last member of the procession, followed by the mace-bearer. The Deakin Academic Procession and stage party usually consists of:

ACADEMIC DRESS

Academic dress is an important reminder of the long history of universities in western civilisation. The three main elements of academic dress are the gown, the hood and the head-dress, which were all once articles of everyday outer dress. Both gowns and hoods, when in common use, were often lined and this lining was decorative, as well as practical. In medieval times, the higher the rank of the wearer, the more sumptuous the gown.

In universities there is still a difference in the apparel of scholars of various ranks reflecting the origins of the academic dress. Today's academic head-dress evolved from various hats and bonnets of earlier times. Deakin University's academic dress, like that of most Australian universities, derives from dress worn at the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge.

THE UNIVERSITY

ALFRED DEAKIN

Deakin University was named in honour of Alfred Deakin (1856–1919), a remarkable Australian statesman, leading figure of the federation movement and three-time Prime Minister of Australia.

Alfred Deakin was a man of broad vision. Praised as a political leader, he was an outstanding orator, accomplished lawyer, a journalist, poet, an intellectual and an idealist motivated by a sense of duty to his country.

The son of English migrants, Alfred Deakin was born and educated in Melbourne, studying law at the University of Melbourne. He embarked upon a career in journalism with The Age and was a prolific reader of literature, philosophy, law and science, earning most of his income as a writer of social and political commentaries.

In 1879, Alfred Deakin launched his political career and became a successful Liberal candidate for the Victorian Parliament. A believer in democratic social reform, he became the acknowledged leader of the Australian Federation movement in Victoria. He was an active campaigner, a delegate at the federal conventions, member of the constitutional drafting committee and colonial representative in London.

Alfred Deakin was Deputy Prime Minister and Attorney-General in Australia's first government and, in 1903, he became Prime Minister. His many achievements include the establishment of the High Court of Australia, the introduction of labour and social reforms, the promulgation of new technologies, such as irrigation and wireless telegraphy, support for the exploration of Antarctica and the introduction of financial support for Australian writers.

Alfred Deakin

The values of innovation, leadership, scholarship and reform embodied in Alfred Deakin are also fundamental values of Deakin University.

ABOUT DEAKIN UNIVERSITY

Deakin University is Australia's ninth largest university. As a public not-for-profit university, Deakin combines excellent research and teaching with a strong focus on strengthening the communities it serves.

The University was established with the Deakin University Act of 1974 as Victoria's fourth university and the first in regional Victoria. Today it has more than 50 000 students, of whom approximately 7000 are international students from more than 100 countries. Almost 14 000 students choose to study via cloud (online) learning.

Deakin University has four campuses – one in Melbourne, two in Geelong and one in Warrnambool. Each campus has a distinctive character, rich culture and a strong presence in the local community.

In addition, Deakin has prestigious multipurpose facilities in the Melbourne, Geelong and Warrnambool CBDs, a network of learning centres stretching across outer metropolitan and regional Victoria, and international offices in India, China and Indonesia.

Deakin is a sector leader for student satisfaction, currently third in Australia and first in Victoria for the 5th consecutive year (Australian Graduate Survey 2010–2014). Deakin has a student-focused culture with a well-deserved reputation for being accessible, helpful and friendly. It has a long standing record for using cutting-edge information technology in education, while providing highly personalised experiences.

Advances in research have been a hallmark of Deakin's success in recent years, with impressive growth in quality, impact and income.

In the most recent Excellence in Research for Australia (ERA) rankings, Deakin Research received the top ranking of five – defined as well above world standard – in seven fields of research and a ranking of four – defined as above world standard – in 11 fields of research.

Deakin is renowned for developing award-winning partnerships with industry, governments, communities, professional associations and other education providers. Building on successes across Australia, these alliances now spread to more than 30 countries. Deakin's alumni networks also stretch across the globe, with more than 200 000 members from more than 110 countries.

BUILDING ON THE UNIVERSITY'S SUCCESS

Deakin University's Strategic Plan – LIVE the future: Agenda 2020 – provides a framework for a bold and exciting future, while remaining true to the University's founding goals:

- to develop lasting and mutually beneficial relationships with rural and regional communities, in particular those in Geelong and Western Victoria
- to offer an educational experience that will widen participation and support students from diverse backgrounds.

These important aims continue to be core to the future of Deakin University. However, in a world that is now globally connected and where excellence and new ideas are available at the touch of a button, we will ensure that engagement and innovation 'anywhere' and 'everywhere we are' is grounded in all aspects of Deakin life – its teaching, its research and its enterprise – to enable our students and staff to thrive and to excel.

The University's vision and mission for its students, staff, alumni, partners and friends is to offer a convenient and personalised relationship, creating the power and opportunities to live the future in a new world. Deakin will also be Australia's premier university in driving the digital frontier – to enable globally connected education for the jobs of the future, and research that makes a difference to the communities we serve.

As a globally joined university, informed by its Australian and Victorian context and engaged locally in the communities it serves, Deakin promises to advance:

- Learning – offer brilliant education where you are and where you want to go
- Ideas – make a difference through world-class innovation and research
- Value – strengthen our communities, enable our partners and enhance our enterprise
- Experience – delight our students, our alumni, our staff and our friends.

For all these reasons, Deakin University occupies an important place in the Australian higher education landscape.

THE CAMPUSES

Deakin is a large university with all the accompanying resources and infrastructure, but its campuses are small enough to retain their own character and sense of community. Each of our campuses offers a unique atmosphere – from the inspiring architecture and bayside appeal of our Geelong Waterfront Campus, to the cafe culture of our Melbourne Burwood Campus, the spectacular coastal location at our Warrnambool Campus or the mix of activity and open space at our Geelong Waurrn Ponds Campus.

MELBOURNE BURWOOD CAMPUS

This thriving campus is Deakin's largest and attracts more than 23 000 undergraduate and postgraduate students. Located 15 km from the Melbourne CBD, it boasts open and inviting spaces for socialising and studying, innovative architecture and wireless locations. An ambitious building program has resulted in a new complex of spacious modern buildings, including the recently completed gateway building situated on Burwood Highway. Refurbishment of older buildings, a library extension, expansion of residential accommodation, a 250-seat lecture theatre and a large landscaped central courtyard have all created a campus that is well-resourced and well-designed. The campus is home to the Deakin University Art Gallery and the Deakin Motion.Lab, a state-of-the-art motion capture facility that produces 3D animation and special effects, similar to those used in films such as Avatar and The Lord of the Rings.

GEELONG WAURN PONDS CAMPUS

Deakin's Geelong Waurrn Ponds Campus is located 8 km from the centre of the historic port city of Geelong, which is 72 km south-west of Melbourne. Geelong is Victoria's largest regional city with a population close to 225 000.

Set amongst extensive landscaped grounds, the Geelong Waurrn Ponds Campus boasts hectares of native trees, grassy lawns, lakes and avenues. There are many specialist facilities at this campus, including an outstandingly resourced library, audiovisual production studios, research laboratories and an extensive computer centre. Also located at the Geelong Waurrn Ponds Campus is the Geelong Technology Precinct, which provides research and development capabilities and opportunities for university–industry partnerships and new enterprises in the region, as well as the Deakin Management Centre, which provides first-class conference and convention facilities. The Deakin School of Medicine is located in an extensively renovated building, which has been purpose designed to deliver the medical course. The medical precinct at this campus will be significantly upgraded, with Epworth HealthCare committing to build a 250-bed private hospital. In addition the State Liberal Government has committed $85 million for a 32-bed public hospital.

GEELONG WATERFRONT CAMPUS

The Geelong Waterfront Campus is Deakin's newest campus, located on the beautiful foreshore of Corio Bay in the central business district of Geelong. Originally built in 1893, the historic woolstore building has undergone extensive redevelopment to create a modern and impressive campus centre.

The centrepiece of the campus is Costa Hall, a concert hall of international standard, where a number of university ceremonies, cultural performances and community functions take place, including Deakin's graduation ceremonies.

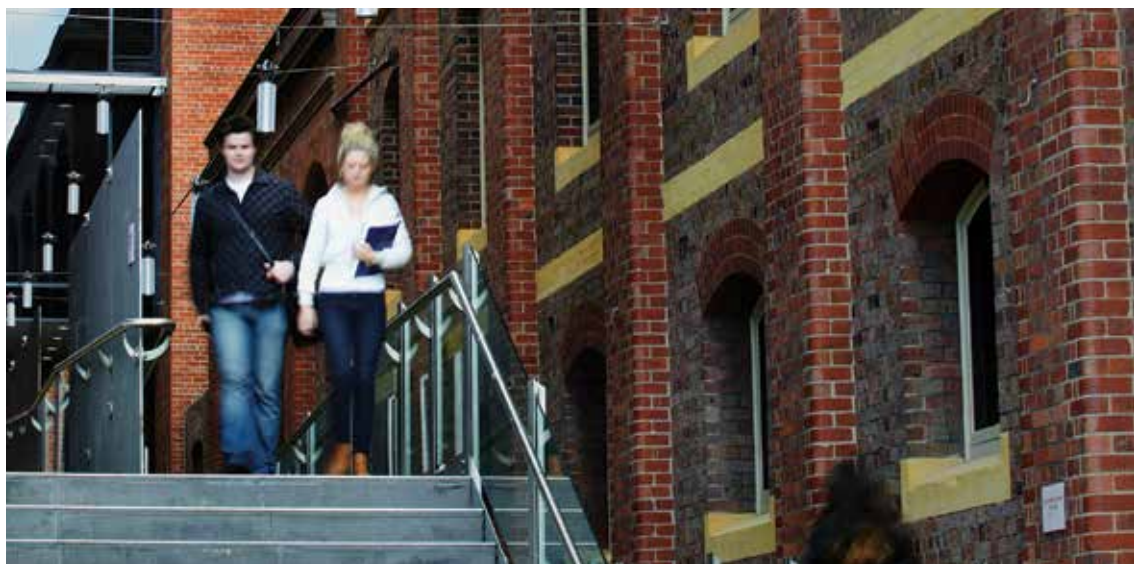

Also located at this campus is the extensively refurbished Sally Walker Building, which houses the Alfred Deakin Prime Ministerial Library and the Alfred Deakin Research Institute. The Alfred Deakin Research Institute is an interdisciplinary teaching and research centre covering political science, public policy and governance, international relations, globalisation, journalism and communications.

WARRNAMBOOL CAMPUS

Warrnambool is the commercial, cultural and educational heart of south-west Victoria. A premier tourist destination, it boasts stunning coastlines, renowned surf beaches and is the state's foremost site for whale watching.

Located 262 km (a three-hour drive) from Melbourne, the campus is set on 114 sprawling hectares on the banks of the picturesque Hopkins River. Our lecturers, students and staff at the Warrnambool Campus form a real community, where communication is open and informal.

Campus facilities include a comprehensive library, excellent teaching and learning spaces, a cafe, gymnasium, bookshop and golf course. Located just 5 km from the centre of Warrnambool, the Warrnambool Campus ensures that Deakin contributes to the vitality of the local community in the tradition of many university cities.

DOCTORAL DEGREES

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

Jeffrey John Chamberlain

Whose Thesis was entitled:

'Vendor Consultant Experiences
Developing ERP Proposals for SME's.'

Summary

The research examines vendor-consultant techniques for developing enterprise system proposals for small-to-medium businesses. It combines a strategic resource-based framework with a business process management perspective to analyse this tailoring process. Competing pressures lead vendor-consultants to downplay the strategic contribution of enterprise systems and focus on business processes.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Craig Parker

Arezou Pour Mirza

Whose Thesis was entitled:

'Trust and Technology in Modern
Inter-Organisational Relationships:
A study in Petrochemical Industry.'

Summary

This research provided fresh insights into the role of trust and technology in modern inter-organisational relationships (IORs). The study highlighted the importance and contribution of various aspects of IORs in the petrochemical industry; however, it emphasised the role of trust and technology as pivotal to business success. The study was undertaken in Iran, where the petrochemical industry faces a great many sociopolitical and economic challenges, where the situation is volatile, and where the lack of trust and shortage of suitable technology to support global trade, accentuate the intricate web of dependencies between those aspects influencing the development and maintenance of business-to-business (B2B) relationships.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Jacob Cybulski

DOCTOR OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Paul Joseph Wilson

Whose Thesis was entitled:

'The Introduction of Compulsory
Benchmarking to the New Zealand
Institutes of Technology and Polytechnics
Sector: Issues and Implications.'

Summary

This project examined the issues and implications arising from the introduction of a compulsory benchmarking system to the Institutes of Technology and Polytechnics (ITP) in New Zealand. It found that the New Zealand Benchmarking Tool (NZBT) was not used by the ITPs to achieve the efficiency and effectiveness improvements expected and reported by the government agent.

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Financial Reporting Behaviour and Investment Efficiency: Evidence from Private Family Firms.'

Summary

This thesis examines the effect of ownership structure on financial reporting behaviours of private medium-sized companies in the UK. Results reveal that although family ownership impacts positively on earnings quality, family companies have less incentives to provide voluntary information. Furthermore, family ownership is not effective in mitigating investment efficiency.

PROFESSOR DAVID CROSS

The Occasional Address will be delivered by Professor David Cross, Professor of Visual Arts, Deakin University.

David Cross works as an artist, curator and writer. His practice extends across performance, installation, sculpture, public art and video. Known for his examination of risk, pleasure and participation, Professor Cross often utilises inflatable structures to negotiate inter-personal exchange. He has performed in international live art festivals in Poland and Croatia and was selected as a New Zealand representative at the 2011 Prague Quadrennial.

Professor Cross was commissioned by the National Institute of Experimental Art/City of Sydney to develop 'Drift', a large-scale public art commission for Taylors Square in Sydney (2011) and his installation 'Lean' was included in The Aberrant Object at Wellington City Art Gallery (2012). His work 'Hold' was selected for inclusion in Liveworks at Performance Space, Sydney in 2010 and featured as part of the Arts House season in the Melbourne International Festival in October 2012. More recently he was commissioned by Scape Public Art 7 curator Blair French to develop 'Level Playing Field', a temporary intervention that fused sport, performance and sculpture in Christchurch.

As a curator and public art facilitator, Professor Cross developed with Claire Doherty the One Day Sculpture project across New Zealand in 2008–2009; featuring 30 international artists including Thomas Hirschhorn, Superflex, Rirkrit Tiravanija and Paula Pivi. In 2011 he was CAST Tasmania's International Curatorial Resident. From this project he curated Iteration: Again 13 Public Art Projects Across Tasmania examining the idea of repetition and transformation in temporary public art and featuring 20 local and international artists.

Professor Cross has edited internationally published books on the aforementioned projects and writes regularly on contemporary art for international publications.

DOCTORAL DEGREES

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

Sally Kathleen Jensen

Whose thesis was entitled:

‘The Nature of Imagination in Education for Sustainability.’

Summary

This research investigated the nature and role of imagination in Education for Sustainability. Through participation, observation and interview, the research examined the ways in which understanding sustainability requires imagination. From a New Materialist standpoint, imagination is re-conceptualised and re-positioned as central and constitutive to learning and knowing.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Mary Dixon

Lucinda McKnight

Whose thesis was entitled:

‘The Glitterbomb: Designing Curriculum and Identity with Girls’ Popular Culture.’

Summary

This thesis contributes to the academic fields of gender and education through an empirical account of how female teachers design curriculum around girls’ popular culture in a contemporary coeducational setting. The thesis argues for reflexivity around curriculum, and also for the re-articulation of curriculum theory with feminist and poststructuralist perspectives.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Joanne O’Mara

Shirley Spiteri

Whose thesis was entitled:

‘Disadvantaged Locations and Transition: Lived Lives of Students Demonstrating Resilience.’

Summary

This study answered what biographical experiences shape the trajectory of students demonstrating resilience during a time of transition. It charted the material conditions of agency and structures. The findings pointed to supportive social relationships, community and school resources and educational policies being critical to shaping agency.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Jillian Blackmore

Benjamin Whitburn

Whose thesis was entitled:

‘Critical Engagement with Insider Accounts of Inclusive Schooling.’

Summary

Engaging critically with insider accounts of inclusive schooling, the thesis provides an opportunity to understand the entangled, multiple, and often contradictory discourses that comprise day-to-day experiences of “inclusion” for young people with impairments. The work forming the majority of this thesis is a collection of journal papers.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Joanne O’Mara

DOCTORAL DEGREES

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

Jo-Anne Claire Langdon

Whose thesis was entitled:

'The Shadow Maker: A Novel and Exegesis Exploring Magical Realism, Trauma and Elegy.'

Summary

Through a creative artefact and critical exegesis, this thesis explores the interconnections between trauma literature, magical realism and elegy. Drawing on various theoretical fields including postcolonialism and feminist theory, the thesis contributes an original intervention into the field of magical realist scholarship, arguing for the continuing significance of the magical realist mode as a politically engaged and subversive literature.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Maria Takolander

Arely Anahy Paredes Chi

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Theory and Practice in Environmental Education: A Mexican Case Study.'

Summary

The new Mexican national curriculum proposes that Environmental Education (EE) should be a transversal topic in teachers' practice, promoting actions for the environment. As a result of participating in this case study, teachers' changed from only providing environmental information to acting to address environmental issues, implementing Participatory Action Research.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Ian Robottom

Juliana Mary Le Skyrme Ryan

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Leaning Towards Collegiality: Narratives of University Communities of Practice.'

Summary

This study explored the relationship between professional learning, community, narrative and identity in strategic communities established to enhance teaching and learning at three Australian universities. It adds to the field by proposing an adaptive model for understanding and fostering future communities of practice in higher education.

PROFESSOR NICOLE RINEHART

The Occasional Address will be delivered by Professor Nicole Rinehart, Professor of Psychology (Clinical), Faculty of Health, Deakin University.

As well as being a Professor of Clinical Psychology at Deakin University, Nicole Rinehart also holds the positions of Honorary Research Fellow at the Murdoch Children's Research Institute and Adjunct Professor, Clinical Psychology at Monash University. In December 2013 Professor Rinehart established the Deakin Child Study Centre with a vision to bring together a multidisciplinary approach to innovative research and shared knowledge, and directs efforts to help children and adolescents with developmental disorders.

Professor Rinehart has published over 100 journal articles and book chapters on autism, Asperger's disorder and Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). She has been involved in research grants for neurodevelopmental disorders totaling over 4 million dollars of funding from the National Health and Medical Research Council (NHMRC), Australian Research Council, Neurosciences Victoria, and other international funding bodies.

Professor Rinehart currently supervises a large group of PhD and Clinical Doctoral Students. She has a broad profile of engagement with the community, including consultation (Clinical Psychologist) at the Melbourne Children's Clinic where she has worked for the last decade, and regular engagement with schools in the community.

Professor Rinehart has contributed to the NHMRC Clinical Practice Statement for ADHD and the revision of the Australian Therapeutic Guidelines for Developmental Disabilities. She is a Member of the Editorial Board for the American Journal of Autism. She was recently appointed as Director of Medical Research at Autism Victoria, and to the Clinical Governance Board of Irabina Autism Services. Professor Rinehart is regularly interviewed by the media, most recently talking about a potential breakthrough in the way we diagnose children with autism on Channel 10.

DOCTORAL DEGREES

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

Lisa Amy Barker

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Malnutrition: Significance, Prevalence and Management of the Hospitalised Surgery Patient.'

Summary

Malnutrition is prevalent and poorly diagnosed in hospitalised patients, with high rates of malnutrition seen in surgical patients. This study found that the administration of a specialised immuno-nutrition supplement is beneficial for malnourished patients undergoing gastrointestinal surgery, and a multidisciplinary team approach improves nutritional care for patients.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Tim Crowe

Andrea Bennet

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Explaining the Gender Differences in Community Attitudes Toward Child Sexual Abuse.'

Summary

The aim of the thesis was to understand how gender, empathy and myth endorsement impacts on jurors' perceptions of child sexual abuse victims.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Bianca Klettke

Helen Louise Brown

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Mediators of Change in Children's Physical Activity.'

Summary

The thesis has provided a more in-depth understanding of the causal mechanisms of behaviour change, specifically through identification of potential mediators as well as identification of challenges implementing effective intervention strategies targeting these mediators. This study found that a better understanding of these mechanisms is likely to enhance the effectiveness of future physical activity interventions.

Principal Supervisor:

Alfred Deakin Professor Jo Salmon

Isabelle Guller

Whose thesis was entitled:

'MicroRNA Profiling in Brown Adipose Tissue and Muscle-Derived CD34+ Cells.'

Summary

The major findings established a mouse brown adipose tissue (BAT)-enriched miRNA profile conserved in human BAT and predicted to target genes potentially involved in growth and development. The present results also identified a human skeletal muscle-derived CD34+ cell population with the capacity to differentiate into brown adipocytes in vitro. These CD34+ expressed common miRNAs to mouse and human BAT. Finally these findings show an up-regulation of 4 miRNAs in human adult skeletal muscle following cold exposure. These miRNAs were also present in mouse and human BAT as well as in CD34+ brown adipocytes.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Aaron Russell

Ashlee Margaret HendyWhose thesis was entitled:

'Functional and Neurological Adaptations to Transcranial Stimulation during Strength Training.'

Summary

This thesis found that the application of non-invasive brain stimulation during resistance training enhances gains in muscular strength and activation. The findings shed light on the contribution of the nervous system in strength development, and can be used to improve rehabilitation techniques for conditions such as musculoskeletal injury and stroke.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Dawson Kidgell

Danielle Patricia HitchWhose thesis was entitled:

'Dynamic and Diverse Ways of Knowing in Mental Health Occupational Therapy.'

Summary

This study focused on evidence based practice for mental health occupational therapy. It explored the theoretical, evidentiary and practical ways of knowing that occupational therapists use to support consumers.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Genevieve Pepin

Sisitha Udara JayasingheWhose thesis was entitled:

'Responsiveness to Psychological Stress and Food Intake: The Influence of Adiposity in Men and Physical Activity in Women.'

Summary

Hyperactivity of the stress pathways can cause diseases. This research concludes that levels of adiposity and physical activity status does not influence physiological responsiveness to psychological stress.

Nevertheless, stress pathway activity in response to food intake can be influenced by increased adiposity but not by increased levels of physical activity.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Anne Turner

Shaun MasonWhose thesis was entitled:

'Treatment of Type 2 Diabetes with Antioxidant Vitamin C Therapy.'

Summary

This thesis found that high dose vitamin C supplementation significantly improved insulin sensitivity in skeletal muscle of people with type 2 diabetes. This clinically relevant improvement corresponded with improvements in vitamin C and oxidative stress levels in skeletal muscle. Vitamin C supplementation could be an effective adjunct therapy in people with type 2 diabetes.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Glenn Wadley

Matin Ghayour MinaieWhose thesis was entitled:

'The Influence of Parenting Style on Adolescent Substance Use.'

Summary

The aim of this thesis was to establish whether specific parenting behaviours were better predictors of adolescent alcohol and drug use. The results suggest that in early adolescence specific parenting behaviours were more direct predictors of the development of adolescent substance use than the more complex parenting style categories.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor John Toumbourou

DOCTOR OF PSYCHOLOGY (HEALTH)

Adriana Danielle Ventura

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Unmet Needs of Palliative Home Care Patients and Carers.'

Summary

This thesis focused on the unmet needs of patients, carers and nursing staff from a private palliative home care service in Victoria. Study results showed that participants were reluctant to disclose their unmet needs, despite having clearly identifiable problems in physical and psychosocial domains.

PROFESSOR KYLIE BALL

The Occasional Address will be delivered by Professor Kylie Ball, Alfred Deakin Professor, Faculty of Health, Deakin University.

Kylie Ball joined Deakin University in 1999 as a Postdoctoral Fellow in the School of Health Sciences. She is currently a Personal Chair in the School of Exercise and Nutrition Sciences, Faculty of Health.

Professor Ball has been awarded four prestigious research fellowships from the National Heart Foundation and the National Health and Medical Research Council (NHMRC), including her current Principal Research Fellowship, which is one of the most senior fellowships awarded by the NHMRC. Professor Ball has been a recipient of the Vice-Chancellor's Award for Outstanding Contributions to Research as an Early Career Researcher, and was the 2010 Deakin University Researcher of the Year. She has also received numerous external awards, including the Australian Institute of Science and Policy Victorian Young Tall Poppy of the Year Award. In 2009 she was appointed as a Fellow of the International Society for Behavioural Nutrition and Physical Activity, the peak scientific body in her field, having previously served as its elected President.

Professor Ball's research is concerned with socioeconomic inequalities in health, with a focus on nutrition, physical activity and obesity. She has published extensively, with 200 journal papers, 10 book chapters, and one edited book. Professor Ball was an important contributor to Deakin's Excellence in Research in Australia ratings and has attracted over $11.5 million in external research funding to Deakin, as well as $10.1 million which she has been awarded with collaborators at other institutions. Professor Ball previously won Deakin's only NHMRC Strategic Award and an NHMRC Capacity Building grant, which she co-led. Professor Ball is nationally and internationally recognised as one of the leading researchers in her field. Her research on obesity prevention has been influential in shaping national policy and she has been invited to serve on numerous expert advisory groups for government and non-government agencies. In 2013 she was the recipient of the Victorian Health Promotion Award for promoting healthy eating for her research conducted in partnership with the National Heart Foundation and Coles supermarkets.

In addition to her own program of research, Professor Ball has played a lead role in the establishment and growth of Deakin's Centre for Physical Activity and Nutrition Research (CPAN). Professor Ball also mentors developing PhD students and early career academic staff across CPAN, the School of Exercise and Nutrition Sciences and elsewhere in the Faculty of Health. Most recently she has established the Mothers in Academia group, a peer support network for early and mid-career female staff in the School. Professor Ball is not only a leading researcher, she is an outstanding research leader who has made a sustained contribution to CPAN and Deakin's research success.

DOCTORAL DEGREES

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

Sonja Rickie Cleary

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Nurse Whistleblowers in Australian Hospitals: A Critical Case Study.'

Summary

Between 2002 and 2005, two high-profile Australian cases of nurse whistleblowing received widespread media attention. Little is known about the processes that influence nurse whistleblowing. This study investigated the nurse actions and highlighted the need to take seriously matters reported that pose a threat to patient safety and quality care.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Megan-Jane Johnstone

Jintana Damkliang

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Use of an Evidence-Based Care Bundle by Thai Emergency Nurses.'

Summary

Implementation of a care bundle for nursing management of patients with severe traumatic brain injury was feasible in the Thai context. Use of an evidence-based care bundle increased emergency nurses' knowledge regarding severe TBI management and improved the care delivered during the initial emergency nursing management of these patients.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Julie Considine

Julia Nicole Morphet

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Transition to Specialty Practice Programs in Australian Emergency Nursing.'

Summary

Transition to Specialty Practice Programs (TSPPs) provide structured support and education to novice nurses. This study examined the prevalence, design, characteristics and functions of emergency nursing TSPPs in Australia, and found that TSPPs served an important function in recruitment, preparation and retention of emergency nurses. A framework for future emergency nursing TSPPs was developed based on study findings.

AWARD OF HONORARY DEGREE

The honorary degree of Doctor of Science will be conferred upon Professor Kurt Zuelke for distinguished service in the scientific and technological community, especially in building collaborations between research groups in universities, government and industry.

PROFESSOR KURT ZUELKE

The Occasional Address will be delivered by Professor Kurt Zuelke, Director, CSIRO Australian Animal Health Laboratory and CSIRO Biosecurity Flagship.

Kurt Zuelke has a dual role as Director of both the Biosecurity Flagship and Australian Animal Health Laboratory (AAHL). His expertise and professional interests include: applying biotechnology, genomics, and systems biology in biomedical and animal production research, reproductive physiology and developmental biology, research administration and bio-containment Facilities Management, and Strategic science policy development and implementation.

Previously Professor Zuelke was the Director of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), National Animal Disease Center (NADC) from 2006–2012. Located in Ames Iowa, the NADC is the largest US federal animal health research facility focused on high impact endemic diseases of livestock and wildlife species.

While at NADC, Professor Zuelke led NADC's strategic business reorganisation and relocation into new 470 million state-of-the-art facilities that support large-scale research in livestock and wildlife species. Professor Zuelke co-founded the USDA National Centers for Animal Health (NCAH), and served on the NCAH Board of Directors in conjunction with Directors of the USDA APHIS National Veterinary Services Laboratory (NVSL), and USDA APHIS Center for Veterinary Biologics (CVB).

From 1995–2001, Professor Zuelke worked with the Victoria Department of Primary Industries in Melbourne where he led industry and government-sponsored research performing functional genomics and biotechnology research in dairy cattle and native Australia wildlife species. Partnering with industry and university researchers, Professor Zuelke's team produced the first transgenic cloned calf in Australia.

From 2005 to 2006, Professor Zuelke served as the USDA's representative on the President's Science and Technology Council for the George W. Bush Administration, where he coordinated federal agricultural, biotechnology, and life science research and policy issues, and led the US delegation to the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Working Party on Biotechnology.

Professor Zuelke holds a Bachelor of Science (Animal Science) from the University of Wisconsin, a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine from the University of Minnesota and a PhD in Physiology from the University of Georgia.

DOCTORAL DEGREES

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

Iskra Galic

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Presentation and Dress Among Individuals with Autism Spectrum Condition.'

Summary

This thesis explored the social importance of presentation and dress in the context of ASC and various cognitive theories of autism using a range of socially relevant survey questions and tasks important to everyday presentation, demonstrating the relevance of dressing to the social obstacles commonly occurring among this population.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Mark Stokes

Briony Lorraine Hill

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Excessive Gestational Weight Gain: A Psychosocial and Behaviour Change Approach.'

Summary

Research findings indicate that gaining excess weight during pregnancy can be influenced by depressive symptoms, body image, confidence and motivation. Prevention of excessive pregnancy weight gain needs to be addressed by identifying women at risk and incorporating psychological and behaviour change intervention into broader health system and prevention programs.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Helen Skouteris

Jonathan Yotti Kingsley

Whose thesis was entitled:

'If the Land is Healthy ... it makes the People Healthy.'

Summary

This PhD explores the connection Aboriginal Victorian people have to their traditional lands (known as Country) and its relationship with health. Findings identify the deep connection Aboriginal Victorian people have to their Country and the need for public health clinicians to engage with diverse Indigenous practices and knowledge when applicable.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Mardie Townsend

Nihal Ganesh Maremanda

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Locked Nucleic Acid Aptamer Based Microfluidic Devices for Capturing Tumor Cells.'

Summary

Design and fabrication of novel microfluidic devices for sensitive and specific capture of circulating tumor cells using locked nucleic acid modified aptamers and antibodies targeting EpCAM/Nucleolin expression. These devices also allow re-usability, on-chip characterization of multiple markers and release of viable captured cells for further culture and in vitro characterization for cancer diagnosis, prognosis and therapeutic planning.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Jagat Kanwar

Mohammed Jasim Mohammed ShallalWhose thesis was entitled:

'Recombinant Influenza Viruses as HIV Vaccine Vector.'

Summary

Live recombinant influenza viruses were successfully used as HIV vaccine vectors in a mouse model. Following intranasal prime-boost vaccination, HIV-specific CD8+ T cell responses were detected in the spleen, broncho-alveolar lavage, mediastinal and inguinal lymph nodes. HIV+a4B7+ CD8+ T cells contributed to protection in pseudo-challenge experiments using recombinant vaccinia virus expressing HIV antigens. This research highlights the importance of mucosal CD8+ T cells in viral immunity and emphasizes the need for additional studies to provide key insights to underpin future vaccine development.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor John Stambas

Nithya SubramanianWhose thesis was entitled:

'Molecular Insights And Oligonucleotide Based Targeted Gene Therapy Against Cancer.'

Summary

This thesis helped to unravel the function of T lymphoma invasion and metastasis protein (TIAM1) and nucleolin, a nucleolar protein in retinoblastoma tumorigenesis. Aptamer based targeted imaging; drug and gene delivery to retinoblastoma and epithelial cancer cells was attained. This research work finally opened up avenue for cancer stem cell targeting using aptamers, imaging of cancer cells using novel bio-orthogonal agent and use of aptamer for blocking the miRNA-17-92 cluster maturation.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Jagat Kanwar

Jason Hugh ThompsonWhose thesis was entitled:

'Attributions of Responsibility for Motor Vehicle Accidents and Post-Injury Outcomes.'

Summary

This thesis explored the relationship between attributions of responsibility for motor vehicle accidents and post-injury outcomes among a large sample of TAC clients. Results demonstrated that, despite similar levels of physical injury, people who attribute responsibility for accidents to other persons or circumstances experience poorer physical and mental health recovery in comparison to those who attribute responsibility to themselves.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Michael Berk

Vanessa Caron VaughanWhose thesis was entitled:

'Cancer Cachexia: A Molecular Nutrition Approach to Cancer-Related Muscle Loss.'

Summary

The project identified changes in molecular markers of antioxidant status and muscle atrophy during cancer-associated weight-loss, and confirmed omega-3 EPA as an effective treatment for muscle-loss in experimental cancer cachexia. The project also identified the PG-SGA nutrition tool as a powerful predictor of patient outcomes and survival in clinical cachexia.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Paul Lewandowski

Tao WangWhose thesis was entitled:

'An Aptamer-Mediated siRNA Delivery System Targeting Breast Tumorigenic Cells.'

Summary

In this study, through developing a RNA interference based gene-knockdown system, the expression of Survivin - a critical gene involved in breast cancer initiation and relapse was silenced. This approach reversed chemo-resistance, transforming Doxorubicin - a classical chemotherapy drug to one able to act on drug-resistant breast cancer stem cells.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Wei Duan

Elyse Fay WarnerWhose thesis was entitled:

'Returning to Co-residence: The Experiences of Young Adults and Parents.'

Summary

This thesis focused on family members' experiences when a young adult returns home. Findings revealed that both young adults and parents come to accept the change in living arrangement, accommodate each other in the parental home and also appreciate how doing so enables them to advance in various life domains.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Claire Henderson-Wilson

Jillian Tutuo WateWhose thesis was entitled:

'Obesity, Dietary Choices, and Sociocultural Influences Among Fijian Adolescents.'

Summary

Obesity contributes to early deaths from non-communicable diseases in all Pacific Islands populations. Fiji is no exception; the prevalence of overweight and obesity has tripled since 1993 in both ethnic groups to different extents. This thesis provides better understanding of dietary patterns and relationships with body weight in adolescents, and their sociocultural influences, in order to identify effective and appropriate messages and messengers to motivate adolescents to improve their diets.

Principal Supervisor:

Alfred Deakin Professor Boyd Swinburn

Ashalyn Paige WattWhose thesis was entitled:

'Innate Immunity in the Mammary Gland and the Role of the Milk Peptidome.'

Summary

This research investigated how the mammary gland responds to disease states such as mastitis and how the milk plays a protective role. An in vitro mammary model was developed and shown to replicate the same responses to the breast when challenged with bacterial proteins demonstrating the usefulness of this model for future investigation of therapeutic interventions.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Ken Walder

DOCTOR OF PSYCHOLOGY (CLINICAL)

Rebecca Jane BaleWhose thesis was entitled:

'Social Support from an Attachment Functions Perspective.'

Summary

This thesis examined attachment style differences in the provision and receipt of safe-haven and secure-base support in times of stress, and the functional outcomes of these types of support. Different patterns of social support provision and receipt were observed among anxious vs. avoidantly attached individuals.

Principal Supervisor:

Mr Gery Karantzas

Rachel Anne-Marie ChungWhose thesis was entitled:

'The Association Between Body Image and Psychological Well-Being in Adult Women.'

Summary

The findings of this thesis highlighted the role of functional aspects of body image (i.e. self-rated health and fitness) in positively shaping the well-being of young and middle-aged women. A novel finding was the strong association found between womens' body image and how well they believed they managed their life situations.

Principal Supervisor:

Alfred Deakin Professor Marita McCabe

Thomas Gordon HammondWhose thesis was entitled:

'The Subjective Wellbeing of Paralympic Athletes.'

Summary

Paralympic athletes represent a very high functioning group within the population. They not only report high levels of SWB but also have robust psychological resources that support adaptation to environmental challenges and athletic success. This would suggest that important lessons in resilience could be learned from this high profile group.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Lina Ricciardelli

Felicity Anna Georgina HolmesWhose thesis was entitled:

'The Role of Masculine Norm Conformity in Men's and Women's Relational Satisfaction.'

Summary

This thesis highlighted that men's conformity to aspects of masculinity manifest in their use of communication and conflict resolution strategies, which in turn contribute to men and their female partners' relational satisfaction. These findings improve knowledge regarding the role of socialised gender norms in relationships and emphasise the importance of adopting a gender-informed approach to treatment practices.

Principal Supervisor:

Alfred Deakin Professor Marita McCabe

Millicent Louise HolmesWhose thesis was entitled:

'Understanding the Link Between Body Dissatisfaction and Binge Eating: A Model Comparison Approach.'

Summary

This thesis explored the association between body dissatisfaction and binge eating by comparing competing theoretical models using a novel, experience sampling method. Participants self-reported their current body dissatisfaction, mood experiences and disordered eating practices over the course of a week. Negative mood, but not dietary restraint, significantly mediated the body dissatisfaction binge eating relationship.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Helen Skouteris

DOCTOR OF PSYCHOLOGY (FORENSIC)Sarah Wilson*Whose thesis was entitled:

'An Investigation of the Developmental Assumptions Underlying Age-based Legal Criteria in the Children's Court.'

Summary

This thesis investigated developmental trends in the psychological abilities presumed to underpin the doli incapax presumption in Victoria, Australia. Findings from this study questioned the utility of the doli incapax presumption as it currently stands and highlighted the need for a purpose-built interview protocol when assessing young people's culpability.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Don Thomson

DOCTOR OF PSYCHOLOGY (HEALTH)Paul Matthew Beaton*Whose thesis was entitled:

'Exploring the Role of Context in Young Adults' Drinking Motives.'

Summary

Drinking motives are a good way to understand risky drinking in young people. Past research considers drinking motives to be stable aspects of a person's personality, however the current research demonstrated across three unique studies, that motives are quite context specific. This new development greatly improves the way we model risk.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Ben Richardson

Emily Kate De JagerWhose thesis was entitled:

'Psychosocial Correlates of Exclusive Breastfeeding Duration to Six Months Postpartum.'

Summary

In Australia 17% of infants are exclusively breastfed to six months postpartum. This thesis examined the effect of psychosocial factors on women's ability to maintain exclusive breastfeeding. The thesis demonstrated the paucity of research in this area and the importance of psychosocial factors such as breastfeeding self-efficacy and psychological adjustment in women's exclusive breastfeeding outcomes.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Helen Skouteris

Lyndel Kate ShandWhose thesis was entitled:

'Posttraumatic Reactions in Women with Ovarian Cancer.'

Summary

The thesis examined the experience of posttraumatic stress symptoms and posttraumatic growth in women with ovarian cancer. Adaptive coping styles were found to be associated with increased growth and fewer symptoms of PTSD. Higher levels of psychological distress and social disconnectedness were associated with increased PTSD symptoms and less growth.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Lina Ricciardelli

Bronwyn Jane SudholzWhose thesis was entitled:

'Understanding Desk-Based Employees and Managers Workplace Sitting and Sitting-Breaks.'

Summary

Sedentary behaviour is an independent health risk factor, and is ubiquitous in the desk-based workplace. Two studies were designed to understand sitting and sitting-breaks in this context. A reliable and valid self-report measure of sitting and sitting-breaks was developed, and various ecological factors predicted variance in sitting and sitting-breaks.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Alexander Mussap

FACULTY OF HEALTHMASTER DEGREES*MASTER OF APPLIED SCIENCE
BY RESEARCH*Lauren Purnell*Who's thesis was entitled:

'Exploring Children's Work Involvement and School Attendance in Rural Cambodia.'

Summary

This thesis identified that children's participation in education is heavily influenced by family financial strain, limited school and community engagement, risks of school dropout for unskilled work opportunities and the failure of education leading to employment.'

DOCTORAL DEGREES

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

Veelasha Moonsamy

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Security and Privacy of Users' Personal Information on Smartphones.'

Summary

This research investigated the proliferation of malicious applications on smartphones and a framework that can efficiently detect and classify such applications based on behavioural patterns was proposed. Additionally the causes and impact of unauthorised disclosure of personal information by clean applications were examined and countermeasures to protect smartphone users' privacy were proposed.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Lynn Batten

Ashish Saini

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Computational Methods for Breast Cancer Diagnosis, Prognosis and Treatment Prediction.'

Summary

This research develops a robust reliability algorithm for the identification of reliable protein interactions that can be incorporated with a gene expression dataset to improve the algorithm performance, and novel breast cancer based diagnostic, prognostic and treatment prediction algorithms, respectively, which take into account the existing issues in order to provide a fair estimation of their performance.

Principal Supervisor:

Alfred Deakin Professor Wanlei Zhou

Kalpana Singh

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Aggregating Privatized Medical Data for Secure Querying Applications.'

Summary

This thesis analyses and examines the challenges of aggregation of sensitive data and data querying on aggregated data at cloud server. This thesis also delineates applications of aggregation of sensitive medical data in several application scenarios, and tests privatization techniques to assist in improving the strength of privacy and utility.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Lynn Batten

Vu Huy Quan

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Preference Mining Techniques for Customer Behaviour Analysis.'

Summary

The thesis studied a number of critical problems in data mining for customer behaviour analysis and proposed novel techniques for better modelling of the customers' decision making process, more efficient analysis of their travel behaviour and more effective identification of their emerging preference.

AWARD OF HONORARY DEGREE

The honorary degree of Doctor of Science will be conferred upon Professor Brad Dunstan for distinguished service in the scientific and technological community, especially building collaborations between research and industry.

PROFESSOR BRAD DUNSTAN

The Occasional Address will be delivered by Professor Brad Dunstan, Chief Executive Officer, Victorian Centre for Advanced Materials Manufacturing.

Currently the Chief Executive Officer of the Victorian Centre for Advanced Materials Manufacturing, (VCAMM), Brad Dunstan draws on a unique defence and automotive industry based background and his qualifications in Science, Engineering and Management to provide industry focus and leadership in the scientific research community.

Professor Dunstan spent over a decade in the Royal Australian Air Force in engineering management positions at both front line fighter squadron and headquarter levels and was trained, and employed, in operational explosive ordnance disposal and improvised explosive device bomb disposal.

Subsequently, Professor Dunstan spent 15 years in the Australian Automotive industry managing a testing laboratory for GM, running the export arm of Holden Special Vehicles, establishing a successful CAD design company and becoming the Chief Engineer of Holden Special Vehicles (HSV) before moving to become Executive in Charge of Engineering Operations for the UK based TWR group here in Australia.

Since starting VCAMM Professor Dunstan has been instrumental in establishing, and growing, a commercially viable one-stop shop for industry to access the Victorian Research community. Professor Dunstan has established a team that has successfully engaged industry, developed a successful consulting arm, bid for funding from Federal and State sources, established spin off companies, and supported ASX listing of companies using VCAMM technologies.

Professor Dunstan was a Councilor on the Victorian Manufacturing Council and a Councilor on the Federal Governments Future Manufacturing Industry Innovation Council. He has also been a Member of the Federal Governments Advanced Manufacturing Action Agenda Strategic Leaders Implementation Group; and he was a Member of the Victorian Government's Small Business Advisory Council where he led the Manufacturing Working Group.

Professor Dunstan sits as a Director on the Board of, and is actively involved in the operations of, Newport Digital Technologies (Australia) Pty Ltd. Professor Dunstan is also an Alternate Director of HARD Technologies Pty Ltd and is Chairman of MicroHeat Technologies Pty Ltd. Professor Dunstan has listings in Who's Who in Science and Engineering and Who's Who in the World.

DOCTORAL DEGREES

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

Danielle Noeline Bassanese

Whose thesis was entitled:

‘Stationary Phase Characterisation and Method Development for Fast Two-Dimensional HPLC.’

Summary

Fundamental improvements to the experimental protocol of two-dimensional high performance liquid chromatography were developed to accomplish truly quantitative analyses of complex natural products. This included developing novel measurement techniques to elucidate the retention behaviour of monolithic columns. Approaches to streamline chromatographic method development were also explored.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Xavier Conlan

Natalie Josephina Debeljuh

Whose thesis was entitled:

‘Amyloid Peptide Self Assembly in Protic Ionic Liquids.’

Summary

This research examined the impact of ionic liquids as novel solvents for amyloid protein self-assembly in Alzheimer’s disease. Comprehensive analysis revealed that certain ionic liquid compositions were able to manipulate the protein folding pathway and control the formation of amyloid fibres and other critical structures expressed in the disease state.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Colin Barrow

Cassandra Lee Fleming

Whose thesis was entitled:

‘Development of Fluorescent and Class Selective HDAC Inhibitors.’

Summary

The inhibition of HDAC enzymes has proven beneficial for the treatment of a variety of diseases including cancer. This thesis details the development of class selective and fluorescent HDAC inhibitors for cellular imaging. Increased HDAC and anticancer activities were observed, and the fluorescent inhibitors were readily visualised in live cells.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Fred Pfeffer

Md Kamal Hosain

Whose thesis was entitled:

‘Rectenna Circuits for RF Energy Harvesting in Miniature DBS Devices.’

Summary

This thesis studied the development of an optimum rectenna for radio frequency energy harvesting in miniature head-mountable deep brain stimulation (DBS) devices. The designed miniature rectenna can operate a DBS device without battery for murine preclinical research. The battery-less operation of the device eliminates battery related difficulties.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Abbas Kouzani

Mark JohnstoneWhose thesis was entitled:

'Fused [n]polynorbornanes in Coordination Cages and Preorganised Hosts.'

Summary

This research focussed on the design, synthesis and characterisation of molecular architectures based on the [n]polynorbornane framework. This work resulted in the development of novel supramolecular systems including coordination cages and molecular receptors for anions.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Fred Pfeffer

Loveleen KumarWhose thesis was entitled:

'Function of Zinc transporters in Human Cells.'

Summary

This study contributes to the knowledge of zinc homeostasis involving members of the ZnT family, in particular ZnT5 and ZnT6, and their role in the molecular basis of an inherited disorder of zinc metabolism in humans, and their function in cultured neuronal cells.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Leigh Ackland

Pavani Praveen NadimintiWhose thesis was entitled:

'Nanostructured Liquid Crystalline Particles as Next Generation Agrochemical Delivery Vehicles.'

Summary

A new system for delivering agrichemicals to crop plants was investigated. Nano-structured lipid particles were used as an alternative to traditional surfactants for penetrating plant surfaces. In laboratory and field trials the nanoparticles delivered chemicals effectively, caused less damage to plants, required less water and resulted in lower environmental impacts.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor David Cahill

Chatura Virajh Dias NagahawatteWhose thesis was entitled:

'Towards Localisation with Doppler Radar.'

Summary

This study introduces a novel method for Geo Localisation via Doppler Radar. The area of research is in the three dimensional space using amplitude and magnitude measurements. Geo Localisation in mobile applications is a useful technology that enables monitoring and gathering information about objects of interest.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Pubudu Pathirana

Dwan Billie PriceWhose thesis was entitled:

'Molecular and Immunological Analysis of Food Allergens.'

Summary

The study demonstrated that peanut allergens were able to adhere and cross a model of the intestinal epithelium. Peanut contact causes a decrease in barrier integrity and mislocalisation of tight junctions. Both allergens are endocytosed by multiple endocytotic mechanisms, which are useful targets for the development of future therapeutics.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Cenk Suphioglu

Linden ServinisWhose thesis was entitled:

'Functionalisation of Carbon Fibre Toward Enhanced Fibre/Matrix Adhesion.'

Summary

This study developed new methodologies to enhance the performance of carbon fiber in epoxy-based composites. A unique interdisciplinary approach of organic chemistry and engineering resulting in excellent real world outcomes.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Luke Henderson

Dilip SinghWhose thesis was entitled:

'Isolation and Development of Oil Producing Microorganisms including Thraustochytrids from Indian and Australian Marine Biodiversity.'

Summary

This thesis isolated and characterized several Thraustochytrid strains from Indian and Australian marine biodiversity and compared these strains for their application in biodiesel and DHA production depend on their fatty acid profile. Strain having best productivity was further optimized for the coproduction of DHA and biodiesel.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Colin Barrow

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY (ENGINEERING)Buddhika Nuwan Abeyrathna*Whose thesis was entitled:

'In-line Shape Compensation for Roll Forming Through Process Parameter Monitoring.'

Summary

This research discusses the defects monitoring and compensation in high strength steel roll forming for automotive applications.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Matthias Weiss

Ossama Mamdouh Mohamed Mahmoud Badr

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Forming Behavior Analysis and Constitutive Modelling of Ti-6Al-4V at Room Temperature.'

Summary

A constitutive model was proposed in this thesis and a promising approach for accurate prediction of forming behaviour of high strength titanium alloy sheet metal forming at room temperature is presented. Outcomes showed a potential solution of cold roll forming of this material for aerospace and automotive structural applications

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Matthias Weiss

Thomas Chaffraix

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Self-Healing Dendrimers Based on Ionic or Hydrogen-Bonding Supramolecular Interactions.'

Summary

This PhD project dealt with the development and characterisation of a number of metallo and hydrogen-bonded supramolecular dendrimers for applications in the area of self-healing materials.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Kevin Magniez

Tarekegn Chimdi Yarimo

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Structure and Dynamics in Solid State Sodium Ion Electrolytes based on Organic Ionic Plastic Crystals.'

Summary

The investigation of solid state sodium ion electrolytes based on Organic Ionic Plastic Crystals were carried out for potential use in electrochemical devices such as batteries.

Principal Supervisor:

Alfred Deakin Professor Maria Forsyth

Peipei Huang

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Passivation of Aluminium Alloy AA5083 by Electrochemical Treatment in Ionic Liquids.'

Summary

This study explored the possibility of reducing corrosion on aluminium alloys by electrochemical treatments in ionic liquids. It showed that the corrosion rates of aluminium alloys were indeed reduced after various electrochemical treatments in the target ionic liquids.

Principal Supervisor:

Alfred Deakin Professor Maria Forsyth

Sahar NaghashianWhose thesis was entitled:

'Shape Morphing in Fibre Reinforced Composite Beams Containing NiTi.'

Summary

This research investigates the design, activation and modelling of a new generation of hybrid materials; called shape memory alloy-composites. These hybrid materials exhibit reversible bending motion with a temperature change and have the potential to be employed in aerospace, automotive and robotic application.

Principal Supervisor:

Alfred Deakin Professor Matthew Barnett

Deepalekshmi PonnammaWhose thesis was entitled:

'Development of High Performance Materials based on Smart Elastomer Nanocomposites.'

Summary

This thesis explores the fabrication of technologically relevant nanocomposites out of a few elastomers and conducting fillers like carbon nanotubes, graphene and polyaniline. The developed materials have good applications in sensors, shape memory devices and capacitors. Different characterization methods reveal the influence of filler-elastomer interactions on the various properties of the obtained nanocomposites as well.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Qipeng Guo

Xiaodong SheWhose thesis was entitled:

'Tailored Hollow Mesoporous Silica Nanoplatfoms with Biological Labels for Colon Targeted Drug Deliver Systems.'

Summary

Hollow mesoporous silica nanoparticles (HMSNs) were synthesized via a new strategy. HMSNs have a high drug loading, controlled release behaviour, and specifically targeting when bioconjugated with Epidermal Growth Factor. The promising in vitro cell tests have revealed the great potential of the HMSNs to be used for cancer therapy.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Lingxue Kong

Tristan James SimonsWhose thesis was entitled:

'Ionic Liquid Electrolytes for Rechargeable Zinc Batteries.'

Summary

Ionic Liquids based on the dicyanamide anion were found to support efficient, high-current zinc electrochemistry. Rechargeable batteries based on zinc metal and conductive polymers were also shown to store energy efficiently, while maintaining high rate capabilities over hundreds of cycles.

Principal Supervisor:

Alfred Deakin Professor Maria Forsyth

Arwa Faraj TawfeeqWhose thesis was entitled:

'Deformation Damage of Brazed and Machined Pyramidal Micro-Trusses.'

Summary

This thesis focuses on studying aluminum micro-truss sandwich structures. These structures have useful properties for a wide range of applications, such as aircraft manufacturing. This thesis suggests the application of a new approach that is using elevated temperature to reduce the undesirable deflections in these truss structures during forming.

Principal Supervisor:

Alfred Deakin Professor Matthew Barnett

Yafei ZhangWhose thesis was entitled:

'Low Toxicity Ionic Liquid Surface Coating for Biodegradable Mg-Based Stents.'

Summary

Biodegradable Mg stents are a new treatment means for the human coronary artery disease. This study works on investigating a low toxic and corrosion protective surface coating material-phosphate based ionic liquid to control the degradation rate of Mg alloys in the body.

Principal Supervisor:

Alfred Deakin Professor Maria Forsyth

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY (SCIENCE)Dolly Mushahary*Whose thesis was entitled:

'Surface Functionalisation of Magnesium Alloys for Use as Bio-implants.'

Summary

Magnesium-based alloys containing appropriate quantities of Strontium can induce optimal bone formation. Surface modification of these alloys with Collagen-I increased mineral deposition on the peri-implant surface over shorter periods of time as compared to the unmodified alloys, indicating the role of Collagen-I and Strontium concentration in bone resorption and remodelling.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Yucang Li

DOCTOR OF TECHNOLOGYSirimevan Bandara Wijekoon*Whose thesis was entitled:

'Study of the Road Construction Industry in Sri Lanka: Emphasis on Improving Performance of the Industry.'

Summary

This outcome of this research identified significant factors influencing the productivity and performance of the road construction industry in Sri Lanka and compared the identified factors with the Australian construction industry, as well as recommending strategies to improve the productivity and performance of the Sri Lankan Road Construction Industry.

AWARD OF HONORARY DEGREE

The honorary degree of Doctor of Letters will be conferred upon Dr Tim Soutphommasane for his distinguished contribution to learning in the fields of multiculturalism and citizenship.

Dr Soutphommasane is the author of three books: The Virtuous Citizen, Cambridge University Press, 2012, Don't Go Back To Where You Came From, New South Books, 2012, and Reclaiming Patriotism, Cambridge University Press, 2009. He has been an opinion columnist with The Age and The Weekend Australian newspapers, and in 2013 presented Mongrel Nation, a six-part documentary series about Australian multiculturalism, on ABC Radio National. He is a Board Member of the National Australia Day Council and a Member of the advisory council of the Global Foundation.

A first-generation Australian of Chinese and Lao extraction, Dr Soutphommasane was raised in southwest Sydney. He completed his Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Oxford, from where he also holds a Master of Philosophy (with distinction). He is a first-class honours graduate of the University of Sydney.

DR TIM SOUTPHOMMASANE

The Occasional Address will be delivered by Dr Tim Soutphommansane, Race Discrimination Commissioner, Australian Human Rights Commission.

Tim Soutphommasane is Race Discrimination Commissioner and commenced his five-year appointment on 20 August 2013. Prior to joining the Australian Human Rights Commission, he was a political philosopher at the University of Sydney. His thinking on multiculturalism and national identity has been influential in reshaping debates in Australia and Britain. During his term, Dr Soutphommasane will be an advocate for a fairer Australia and drive the Commission's efforts to combat racism.

DOCTORAL DEGREES

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

Gillian Louise Nieman

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Aboriginal People and Local Government: A Shepparton Story.'

Summary

Sequential governments have created policies to deal with the "Aboriginal problem". None of these have been particularly successful. This thesis argued that the absence of effective dialogue has been the cause of most failures. Furthermore, future policies will also fail unless a dialogic approach of deep listening, respect and love is adopted.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Phil Connors

Cuc Thi Nguyen

Whose Thesis was entitled:

'Impact of Community Context and Individual Factors on Entrepreneurial Propensity and Behaviours of Rural Females in a Transitional Economy: Evidence from Vietnam.'

Summary

This study proposes a novel model of female entrepreneurship in rural areas of transitional countries. This model indicates indirect influences of various community contextual factors and highlights six individual qualities that largely determine the entrepreneurial propensity and behaviours of the females.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor David Bednall

Thi Anh Thu Pham

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Studies of Firm Efficiency on Stock Returns.'

Summary

The thesis provides strong evidence for a negative relationship between firm efficiency and average stock returns in the Australian market. Moreover, the findings indicate that the return anomalies are more likely due to mispricing in which arbitrage costs play an important role in explaining the efficiency effect.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Victor Fang

Selinawati

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Women in Politics in Matrilineal Society (a case study of West Sumatra, Indonesia).'

Summary

The study found that the West Sumatran matrilineal system offered limited support to female politicians who still experienced disadvantages in the national system. It concludes that there is a need to include aspects of local culture into regional electoral policy and for women to develop better political credential.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Ismet Fanany

Andrew Cameron Sims

Whose thesis was entitled:

'The Very Idea of Psychodynamic Neuroscience.'

Summary

In some mental illnesses the behaviour to be understood suggests explanation in terms of motivational states that hold of the patient. This study demonstrated that there are no reasonable grounds to prohibit this style of explanation and that it has a potential place within contemporary psychological frameworks.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Russell Grigg

Paulette Jane Wallace

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Approaching Cultural Landscapes in Post-Settler Societies: Ideas, Policies, Practices.'

Summary

This thesis contends that the concept of cultural landscape is a useful tool for dismantling heritage management programs that promote demarcations between natural/settler/indigenous heritage values in protected areas in New Zealand, Australia, Canada and the United States.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Andrea Witcomb

Yuwei Zhou

Whose thesis was entitled:

'Stock Returns and Inflation Revisited: Australian Evidences.'

Summary

Results of this thesis suggest that a significant negative relation between stock returns and inflation identified in Australia during 'inflation targeting' is mainly due to an incidence of 'flight to safety'. Furthermore, the impact of inflation news on stock returns is industry-sector dependent. Specifically, in Australia rising inflation seems to be good news for Financials, but bad news for Materials.

MS KAREN QUINLAN

The Occasional Address will be delivered by Ms Karen Quinlan, Director, Bendigo Gallery.

Karen Quinlan graduated from The University of Melbourne in 1985 after completing a Bachelor of Education (Visual Arts). She taught Visual Arts at the secondary level for five years before embarking on a career in the museum industry.

In 1994 at the National Gallery of Victoria, Ms Quinlan commenced work in the curatorial area before becoming Curator of the Bendigo Art Gallery in 1996. In 2000 she became the Director of Bendigo Art Gallery and has overseen the redevelopment of the Gallery over successive building projects with the final phase completed in March 2014.

Ms Quinlan has been instrumental in bringing international exhibitions to regional Victoria most recently hosting The Golden Age of Couture: Paris and London 1947–1957, The White Wedding Dress: 200 Years of Wedding Fashion and more recently Grace Kelly: Style Icon, achieving record attendances of over 150,000. A recent collaborative exhibition with the Royal Academy of Arts produced Genius and Ambition: The Royal Academy of Arts, London 1768–1918 which has the potential of being hailed as ‘exhibition of the year’ by Australian critics. The Gallery is also working for the first time with the British Museum on Bendigo Art Gallery’s next major international exhibition.

Ms Quinlan is a Board Member of the State Library of Victoria, Chair of the Public Galleries Association of Victoria and was recently appointed as an Adjunct Professor, La Trobe University, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences. Ms Quinlan became a Board member of the Melbourne Fashion Festival in 2013. Ms Quinlan has also been preoccupied for the past decade in research and writing about the experience of Australia’s expatriate artists between 1900–1940.

DOCTORAL DEGREES

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

Kim Jaime Barbour

Whose Thesis was entitled:

'Finding the Edge: Online Persona Creation in Fringe Art Forms.'

Summary

This study investigates the experience of persona creation by eight artists working in fringe art forms. The research demonstrates that for these artists, the online persona can operate in three registers of performance – professional, personal, and intimate – and in creating their personas, participants draw on socio-cultural discourses of artistness.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor David Marshall

Trent Evan Griffiths

Whose Thesis was entitled:

'Documentary Tensions and the Filmmaker in the Frame.'

Summary

This thesis identifies a distinct category of documentary in which the filmmaker is shown negotiating their authorship and performing their authority. Close analysis of three films investigates conceptual tensions that arise when a filmmaker is framed as both a specific subject and a documentary author.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Deb Verhoeven

Grady Clare Hancock

Whose Thesis was entitled:

'Re-Visioning Australian Social Realism through a Feminine Lens.'

Summary

This research explores the unique ways in which female film practitioners in Australia are utilising social realist politics in examining the stories of women in marginalised spaces. The findings add to the much needed gravitas of the female voice in contemporary Australian film.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Leon Marvell

Leslie James Hartley

Whose Thesis was entitled:

'When Fathers Murder Sons: Male Melancholy in Dostoyevsky, Mailer and Murakami.'

Summary

This thesis identifies what is unique about male melancholia as represented in literary texts from the nineteenth century to the present. It argues that male melancholia is written into western civilisation and sustained as a necessity for social order and that it involves male violence towards its male offspring by the father.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Ann Mc Culloch

John Francis McCormickWhose Thesis was entitled:

'Responding to Human Full-Body Gestures Embedded in Motion Data Streams.'

Summary

This research created a neural-network enabled artificially intelligent performing agent that was able to learn to dance and recognise movement through a rehearsal and performance process with a human dancer. The agent exhibited emergent dance behaviour and successfully engaged in a live, semi-improvised dance performance with the human dancer.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Kim Vincs

Lovie Edwin SeruWhose Thesis was entitled:

'The Communication of Diabetes' Health Campaign Information in Remote Botswana.'

Summary

This study has uncovered that to improve diabetes campaigns, and possibly the campaigns of other diseases in low-resourced communities of developing sub-Saharan countries like Botswana, the interpersonal, homophilous, power relations, entertainment, traditional healing systems, religious institutions and empowerment forms of communication need to be integrated into the campaign communication processes.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor David Marshall

Roberta ShawWhose Thesis was entitled:

'Looking and Aesthetics: Beyond Literary Representations of Voyeurism.'

Summary

This thesis examines looking in literary and filmic representations to discover its aims and capacities beyond the conventional interpretations of the act as voyeurism.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Katya Johanson

Ilona Louise UrquhartWhose Thesis was entitled:

'Diabolical Literature: Questioning the Morality of Modernism.'

Summary

This thesis explores the significance of representations of the devil in key works of modernist literature. It demonstrates that certain writers engaged with the idea that literature was devilish, attesting to the modernists' self-conscious preoccupation with the morality of literature.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Geoff Boucher
