

McGlashan Everist

David McGlashan and Neil Everist established their architectural practice in 1955, soon after they had graduated from the University of Melbourne. They quickly found their place in Australia's architectural establishment with notable residential projects such as the Reed House at Heide, Grimwade House, and the Reed House at Aspendale. From the late 1960s, they became known as premier architects in the education sector, with major work at Wesley College, Geelong College, Deakin University and the University of Melbourne.

David Stewart McGlashan (1926-1998)

David McGlashan was born to Irene Sophia (nee Irwin) and Neil Stewart McGlashan of Were Street, Brighton, in 1927. McGlashan attended Wesley College as a boy and then studied Chemical Engineering at the University of Melbourne from 1947 to 1948, before transferring to Architecture in 1949. He graduated in 1951 and in 1955 went into partnership with his fellow student and rowing partner, Neil Everist. By this stage, McGlashan had done some professional work in 1951 when he designed a ski lodge at Mt Buller – he was always an avid skier.

In these first few years, McGlashan Everist operated from a room in McGlashan's mother's house in Brighton. McGlashan Everist's first major commission was the Barry House in Roosevelt Court, East Brighton, completed in 1957. For the next twenty years, the firm concentrated on residential houses, built in a modernist style.

Architect and critic, Neil Clerehan described their houses thus: 'in design it is Mondrian; in space it is Antipodean.' McGlashan Everist's last major residential commission was the Mylius House II, completed in 1976.

McGlashan Everist also developed an expertise in educational design. Everist had already worked for Geelong College in the 1960s and Deakin University in the 1970s, and the Melbourne office, under McGlashan's direction, did major work for Wesley College, Knox College, Aquinas College, and the University of Melbourne, among many other educational clients.

Although architecture was very much David McGlashan's life, he was also a rower and an Alpine skier who was dedicated to his wife and four children. He died in December 1997, on the day after he retired from the firm he co-founded more than forty years before.

(Percy) Neil Everist (1929-2016)

Neil Everist was born and raised in Geelong. He ran the Geelong office of McGlashan Everist from the late 1950s until his retirement in 1997.

Everist attended Geelong College in Newtown from the age of five until his senior years. He then studied architecture at the Gordon Institute of Technology before transferring to the University of Melbourne. After graduating in 1953, he partnered with fellow student and rower, David McGlashan, from 1955. From the late 1950s, Everist ran the Geelong office and McGlashan the Melbourne office.

McGlashan Everist is responsible for reshaping the city of Geelong, especially along the waterfront. The conversion of a chain of historic wool stores into the Waterfront Campus of Deakin University transformed a tired commercial area into a vibrant and modern educational precinct.

As well as his professional contribution to Geelong, Everist was also a generous citizen who contributed to the community in many ways – as Geelong College rowing coach (1940s-1950s), Geelong College Council (1960-1979), Geelong Lifeline (1987-2005), and the Geelong Gallery (1996-2003). Early in his professional career, he was awarded the Sisalkraft Scholarship (1964) which gave him the opportunity to travel and study. In later years, he was awarded the Centenary Medal (2001), the Medal of the Order of Australia (2002), and an Honorary Doctorate of Letters (Deakin University, 2003).

Everist died in his beloved Geelong in 2016. He is still fondly remembered in the community as a generous and gentle man. His architectural and community legacies will last many lifetimes.
