The Graduation Ceremony

'Kim barne barre Wadawurrung Dja' Welcome to Wadawurrung Country

Deakin University would like to acknowledge the Wadawurrung People, the traditional custodians of the land and the Wathaurong community where this graduation ceremony is taking place. We pay our respects for their continued care of the land and further extend that respect to elders past and present.

Order of Ceremony

Processional music heralds the arrival of the Academic Procession for the graduation ceremony.

At the commencement of this music, graduands and guests are asked to stand and remain standing for the National Anthem.

The Master of Ceremonies will open proceedings and the Chancellor (or representative) will deliver the opening address. The Vice-Chancellor (or representative) will then introduce the guest speaker who will deliver the occasional address.

The Chancellor (or representative) will then make a formal declaration conferring the awards of the University on the graduates, both present and in absentia, and will invite graduates to proceed to the stage according to the order published in the program.

A Faculty Executive Dean (or representative) will read out the names of graduates being presented to the Chancellor (or representative).

At the conclusion of the presentation of the graduates, a representative of the graduating students will deliver a brief response.

The Vice-Chancellor (or representative) will deliver the closing address. Following the closing address, there will be a musical performance.

At the conclusion of the ceremony guests are requested to stand while the stage party and graduates leave the hall.

Refreshments will then be served in the marquee in the John Hay Courtyard.

The University Mace

Maces were originally medieval weapons carried by bodyguards to kings and sergeants-at-arms. Much later, the mace became of ceremonial rather than practical significance and organisations such as civic corporations and universities adopted the mace as a symbol of the rule of legal authority.

The University's mace is displayed at meetings of the University Council and on such ceremonial occasions as conferring ceremonies. The bearer of the mace, in academic processions, 'guards' the Chancellor. Deakin's mace was presented to the University by Mr Donald Thomson, Sir Wilfred Brookes and Mr Norman Stephen (Alcoa Australia).

The Graduation Ceremony

Academic Dress

Academic dress is an important reminder of the long history of universities in western civilisation. The three main elements of academic dress are the gown, the hood and the head-dress, which were all once articles of everyday outer dress. Both gowns and hoods, when in common use, were often lined and this lining was decorative, as well as practical. In medieval times, the higher the rank of the wearer, the more sumptuous the gown.

In universities there is still a difference in the apparel of scholars of various ranks reflecting the origins of the academic dress. Today's academic head-dress evolved from various hats and bonnets of earlier times. Deakin University's academic dress, like that of most Australian universities, derives from dress worn at the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge.

‘Quantitative Assessment of Neurological Dysfunction using Kinematic Measures.’

This research developed a system for assessing neurological dysfunction through kinematic measures of daily activities using purpose-built instrumented devices, a mobile application, and a cloud backend. Findings suggest avenues for further validation and refinement on using measures from their instrumented spoon as they correlate well with clinically reported patient severity.

‘Understanding the Local Deformation in Flexible Roll Forming and its Effect on Wrinkling.’

This thesis explored the local deformation behaviour in the Flexible Roll Forming process that contributed to wrinkling development. The study outcome showed that the region near the tool’s contact with non-linear deformation behaviour and curved shape is critical to wrinkle formation. Effective defect compensation was implemented based on the understanding.

This thesis addresses pervasive video quality degradation, leveraging deep learning for Video Super-Resolution (VSR). Contributions include an exhaustive literature analysis, data pre-processing algorithms, a novel recurrent model for online VSR, an extension to omnidirectional videos, and an application in horticulture for enhanced computer vision. This study significantly advances the scientific understanding and practical implementation of deep learning-based VSR.

‘Impact of Northern Territory’s Banned Drinker Register on Assault and Maltreatment in Children and Adolescents.’

The thesis explores the impact of the Northern Territory’s Banned Drinker Register on child and adolescent harms. There was minimal evidence that suggested the policy had a substantial impact on child harms. Broader approaches that target wider determinants of harm is necessary to reduce the high levels of child-related harm across the Territory.

This thesis examined how women negotiate multiple subjectivities as they establish themselves as leaders in rural schools in Australia. ‘Migrant Men and Intimate Relationships: Violence Perpetration, Coping, and Help-Seeking.’

This thesis investigated the intimate relationships of migrant men in the contexts of conflict and violence, and explored men’s coping strategies and help-seeking attitudes and behaviour. The findings provided novel insights into the impact of immigration on intimate partner violence perpetration and the influences of culture, religion, and attitudes on migrant men’s coping strategies and help-seeking behaviours.

‘Psychological Functioning of Siblings of People with Mental Illness.’

This research aimed to examine the psychological functioning of siblings of people with mental illness. Siblings were found to experience distress, burden, and reduced wellbeing. Modifiable factors such as confusion about mental illness, limited communication, negative appraisals of caregiving, and early maladaptive schemas of Disconnection and Impaired Autonomy were identified.

‘The Authenticity of Aesthetic Experience in Sartrean Existentialism.’

This thesis suggests that neither Sartre nor his modern interpreters have been able to adequately locate existential authenticity. Instead of pursuing socio-politics in search of freedom, a return to Sartre’s ontological and phenomenological origins is argued as necessary. The proposed alternative to this elusive realisation of authentic being is thus examined via aesthetic experience and art.

‘Surface Modification via Electro-Initiated Polymerisation for Injection Moulded Carbon Fibre Reinforced Polyamide 6 Composite.’

This research explored the effects of surface modification on carbon fibre using electrochemistry in reinforced thermoplastic composite specimens. It detailed procedures and challenges in upscaling surface treatments and composite blending, showcasing improved ductility and toughness in tensile and flexural behaviour, reducing interfacial debonding and promoting cohesive resin failure.

‘Impact of Nano- and Microplastics on Membrane Technology Performance.’

This thesis scrutinised the influence of model microplastic fibers on membrane technologies deployed in wastewater treatment plants, specifically crossflow ultrafiltration and membrane bioreactor systems. Findings indicate that these microplastics minimally affected system performances during the initial start-up phase.

'Recycling Waste Gases from Carbon Fiber Production Towards High-Performance Composites.'

This study introduced an innovative approach to creating hybrid CNT@CF. By utilising the gases released during carbonisation, carbon nanotubes (CNTs) can be grown on carbon fiber (CF) surfaces. Meanwhile, the potential multifunctional application for CNT@CF also has been investigated.

'Development of an Aptamer-based Drug Delivery System into the Brain.'

This thesis investigated an alternative approach to delivering drugs across the blood-brain barrier (BBB) and into the brain tissue. It involved identifying protein targets on the BBB and developing nucleotide-based ligands, called aptamers, against the target protein. Candidate aptamers were generated using specialised protocol and can be developed further for targeted drug delivery strategies.

'ADAMTS Enzymes and Inflammatory Responses following Influenza Virus Infection.'

This thesis investigated the role that extracellular matrix enzymes play in response to influenza virus infection. Studies presented in this thesis highlight the complexity of host-pathogen interactions and the importance of host responses in control of respiratory virus infection.

‘Mortality Prediction for Emergency Laparotomy in Australia.’

This thesis aimed to determine whether the standard emergency laparotomy risk prediction models are well calibrated to the Australian patient population. The findings suggest that these models are useful for identifying emergency laparotomy patients at low- versus high-risk of mortality, however actual mortality rates were found to be lower than predicted.

‘Geelong Retrorectus Complex Ventral Hernia Repair Audit.’

This study investigated the efficacy of the retrorectus mesh hernia repair, by undertaking a retrospective audit in the Geelong region using Open, Laparoscopic and Robotic-assisted techniques. It showed no hernia recurrences, that larger hernia area and the Open approach increased complications, and that robotic-assisted techniques reduced discomfort. This study may help to create larger more powerful long-term follow-up databases.

NIKERI Institute

Deakin University is proud to have the largest number of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students of any Victorian university.

The National Indigenous Knowledges Education Research and Innovation (NIKERI) Institute commenced in 1991 and offers programs that are structured around off-campus community-based delivery, supported by on-campus intensive study blocks and complemented by local tutors in their home communities.

This approach to course delivery promotes access and equity for Indigenous Australian students. Students from all areas of the country – rural, remote and metropolitan, and across all age ranges, particularly mature age – are able to undertake studies without compromising their family and community obligations.

In November 2019, the Institute won the prestigious Dreamtime Education Award for 'Education Institute of the Year'.
